AC powered air conditioner is designed for outdoor climate control applications. It provides a suitable temperature environment to ensure the service life of the equipment in the cabinet. It can work immediately after power on with complete functions, high reliability, simple installation and without complicated debugging.

Product Advantages: Efficient Cooling: Advanced air-cooling technology ensures stable battery performance and extends battery life.; Energy-saving & Eco-friendly: Uses R134a refrigerant, meeting environmental standards and reducing operating costs.; Precise Temperature Control: Real-time temperature adjustment for optimal energy storage system operation.

That means, it'll consume almost half of the energy the solar panel system generates. Since Air Conditioning units come in different sizes, their energy consumption varies. An average single room air conditioner will consume approximately 0.5kW to 1.5kW, while a central AC may consume between 3kW to 5kW. So you're going to need at least 3kW ...
