

What is a storage unit franchise?

Storage unit franchises are part of the storage and warehouse leasing industry, which has seen strong growth in recent years. It provides storage ranging from individual lockers to whole container units and even outdoor spaces, including those mobile containers that prove so valuable in house moves.

Will a storage unit franchise benefit your home?

Rising home ownership, per capita income, and consumer confidence are all likely to benefit storage unit franchises over the next five years, as people have the money not only to move house but to make use of storage options as part of the move, or even to leave some of their possessions in storage for the longer term.

Is storage authority a franchise?

Instead of offering portable storage and moving solutions, Storage Authority is one of the only traditional self-storage facilities using a franchise business model (most self-storage businesses are independent operations). As such, they offer more advanced systems and technologies than the average independent self-storage business.

Who is PODS - portable on demand storage?

PODS - Portable On Demand Storage is listed in the Franchise Directory under the Home Services category. It's also listed in the section for Franchises Under $500,000. Zoomin Groomin is a custom one-on-one Mobile Pet Grooming business utilizing state-of-the-art vans that focuses on the Comfort of the Pet and the Convenience of the Customer.

Why do franchises need a packing system?

Even during the packing process, these make more space to maneuver, as belongings can be boxed and sorted into the unit instead of piling up in the house. This is the model that many franchises have adopted, providing customers with the flexibility they need to deal with a complicated and busy moment in their lives.
